

In the Spotlight...

Our Mission – High Peak Partners works with businesses in the Berkshires and New York City to build teams, develop outstanding talent, and facilitate performance and growth. Our consultants – Michael Mimnaugh, Andi Fenster, and Jay Wolf – are steeped in big business and global corporate experience and have the flexibility to adapt to meet the HR needs of small, mid-sized and non-profit businesses. We know that regardless of size, people are the essence of business success.

High Peak offers:

- Professional development and leadership training to help businesses nurture productive people to better meet company objectives.
- One-on-one and small group leadership coaching and training.
- Expertise in policy development, compensation and benefits, employee relations, recruitment, employee engagement, performance management, and executive coaching. In addition, we provide advisory services in employee handbooks and outplacement.

Our Background – High Peak values talent above all else, and we demonstrate that in the talent we bring to our clients. The depth of knowledge and experience evident in our team makes us uniquely positioned to tailor programs to guide talent and support HR programs. Michael, Andi and Jay each have two decades of human resources management experience in diverse industries: manufacturing, financial services, technology, entertainment, cosmetics, and more. After years of focused work in New York City, High Peak is excited to now bring its expertise to the businesses of Berkshires.

Our Blueprint for Success – Our blueprint for success is to do what we do best: help businesses thrive through leadership development, employee relations, communications, systems, and policy. Our blueprint is for YOUR success.
